

About Osama Farooqui

With over fifteen years of leadership and training experience, Osama is passionate about guiding individuals and teams toward meaningful growth. Whether addressing recent graduates or facilitating executive training sessions for senior leaders, he brings a practical, people-focused approach rooted in real-world leadership and a commitment to lifelong learning.

Osama has led operations across the Middle East, Africa, and India for a global interoperability software company, managing a diverse team while driving strategic initiatives that enhance performance and foster team development. He has successfully led global operational projects, applying strong negotiation, problem-solving, and change management skills to deliver measurable improvements.

Equally comfortable presenting to large audiences or leading intimate workshops, Osama is known for creating engaging, transparent learning environments that honour individual perspectives. His style blends realism with empathy, supporting both professional capability and personal confidence. Dedicated to continuous development, he models the same growth mindset they encourage in others.

Accreditations

- BA degree in Business & Human Resource Management, Birmingham City University
- Change Management training, KPMG