

About Jack Milner

Jack enjoys simultaneous careers as a director, producer, writer and business facilitator. He has extensive experience helping organizations and individuals articulate and memorably communicate their ideas, working with clients as varied as Google, Commerzbank, Microsoft, London Business School, the Department for International Development, the NHS, Cisco, Standard Chartered Bank, Innovia Film and Pfizer.

Jack's skills learnt from the world of stand-up and theatre make for fresh, natural and compelling communication. As director for the West End, film and radio he knows how to take often dry, technical information and render it clear and memorable, no matter who the audience.